The "New Productive Forces – Smart Strategy for Enterprises' Upgrade and Transformation" is designed for enterprises to explore how new quality productivity can drive rapid business transformation. Bank of China (Hong Kong) (BOCHK) and Hong Kong Productivity Council (HKPC) will analyze current trends and strategies for industrial upgrading, and share insights on leveraging new quality productivity. The seminar will also showcase successful cases of utilizing government funding schemes for upgrading the electronic communication industry. Additionally, it will highlight the products and services of bank and the Hong Kong Export Credit Insurance Corporation (HKECIC) tailored for specific industries to help enterprises seize business opportunities and enhance financial flexibility. Attendees will also have the opportunity to visit the "Electromagnetic Compatibility (EMC) Centre" which boasts the most comprehensive EMC testing facilities in the region. This visit will provide an in-depth understanding of the latest technologies in electromagnetic radiation testing.
